

Training Centres

Standex Information and Training Centers offer a comprehensive range of training programmes to help you work even more successfully. Standox Technical Training means professional training at the highest level, which are equipped to the highest standards. A "Train-the-Trainer" programme that has proven its worth over several decades ensures all Standox instructors and service technicians always stay abreast of the latest technical developments. Standox Technical Training shows you how to get the maximum out of your Standox products.
