

Standown iQ

The cloud-based colour software that's the gateway to the world of Standox colours

With a comprehensive database of over 200,000 formulas and a wide range of colour information readily available, the Standown iQ colour retrieval programme makes finding the right colour even easier for professional refinishers. All relevant information about colours and colour variants can be found in just a few steps. Standown iQ is cloud-based, and that means it has these important advantages:

- Up to date: the latest formula and products are available at all times. Manual updates using a DVD are no longer required.
- Peace-of Mind: As the data is in the cloud you don't have to worry about back-ups and losing data from hardware failures. Also the software is constantly being updated automatically, bringing new functionality and performance improvements.
- Flexibility: Data can be retrieved via a tablet or smartphone, from anywhere, and can be used by different work stations. Standown iQ is compatible with a variety of different hardware – from the mixing scales through to pioneering, computerised mixing and dosing systems.
- Job card management: Standown iQ allows access to other added-value bodyshop related services. Through job cards you can get a more complete view paint and even complete repair jobs in your bodyshop.

How to get the Standown iQ software in your bodyshop? Ask your Standox technical adviser for more details.

Visit the world of Standox colours and see all colours and formulas available without formulas in our online database.

Online Colour Search

For registered users:

My Standox

Standown iQ App – Colour management at your fingertips

By downloading the latest app version of our Standown iQ colour management software, you gain access to the latest features and enhancements. The app is quick and easy to use with a user-friendly interface and includes all the functionality of the main Standown iQ software. It also takes advantage of scanning options on mobile devices for additional convenience.

Find out how the Standown iQ app will benefit your bodyshop.

